

Announcing Mission Availability

---

Act2.TECH is an emergent technology and executive services practice launched by Andy Liwen, a global executive with extensive experience in making cutting edge technology become a business advantage. We are excited to announce that this distinguished leader is now available to support your business, your executive leadership team, and your specialized strategic projects. With extensive successes guiding high profile global firms that spans business strategy, solutions sales, complex system architecture, security, strategic planning, product marketing, and business model design, Mr. Liwen is uniquely positioned to rapidly deliver exceptional, precise value to you, to your team, and to your market.

Expertise Highlights:

- Business Leadership in Technology as a Strategy: With a proven track record of leading high-impact business growth, Mr. Liwen has consistently demonstrated the ability to align technology initiatives with measurable business objectives, for winning market innovation.
- System Architecture and Computer Security: Mr. Liwen has award-winning understanding of complex system architectures and robust experience in implementing top-tier tech security measures, assuring reliable and secure business operations.
- Strategic Planning and Product Marketing: Adept at strategic thinking, Andy has guided military, intelligence, public, and private sector in strategies and tactics that maximized market potential and enhanced product relevance.

Services Offered:

- Fractional Executive Leadership: Providing part-time executive leadership to navigate complex challenges, to develop strategic plans, and to achieve business goals.
- Professional Communications: Crafting compelling business documents, including white papers, business plans, market strategies, and transformational change management, that clearly communicate value propositions and strategic insights.
- Project Leadership: Leading and managing critical, cross functional projects to ensure successful completion on time and within budget, while meeting all strategic objectives.

Why Choose Us?

- Proven AI Novel Expertise: With years of hands-on experience, including founding principal scientist at AT&T's AI Lab and a deep understanding of AI, Mr. Liwen offers unparalleled expertise to turn emergent AI into business results.
- Strategic Vision: Andy combines technical acumen and savant foresight, enabling businesses to create unfair competitive advantage while making solutions that solve real problems and produce measurable results.
- Mission-Centered Approach: Through deep understanding of each client's unique mission, Mr. Liwen provides tailored solutions with measurable results and long-term success – precisely focused on each mission and its team for winning outcomes.

Endorsement

Mr. Liwen has received numerous endorsements but his proudest was from the EVP of the world's largest community oncology practice. After assisting in the machine learning project to support a precision medicine service, a novel AI plan was created for a virtual clinical care coach. Dr. Patt, MD, PhD, MS-IT cited that Mr. Liwen was the only person in the world who could have created such a compelling solution that served all disenfranchised parties. Mr. Liwen can also provide references through Intel's CTO and Boeing's Chief AI Engineer.